I think that would be good , especially if we are going to say a livestock BMP is unacceptable because it has nothing to do with PM-10 control.

I prepared comments on Crops and Animal BMPs, but Crops comments are more specific and robust. Sona and I are going to look more at Animals tomorrow to “beef” that up.

Are you guys available for a call with ADEQ this week (the Ag BMP Committee Meeting is next Monday). Were you planning to write comments?

Can you send me EPA's general comments just in case we can't talk on the phone, plus it's easier to convey the major points if I something written down.

Thanks

I understand the dilemma. We will have to find a solution, but I think EPA will have to be the bad guy.

If that's the case, then I don't know how to approach the situation since it's in statute.

Hi, Lisa,

I will give you a call. It's my understanding that irrigation districts cannot be included in BMP programs. This hasn't been done anywhere else. It's unfortunate that they did not communicate this to ADEQ and EPA.

Colleen,

The irrigation BMPs were developed as a result of SB1408 (see attached). This bill added irrigation districts/activities to the BMP program. I don't believe that anyone at ADEQ was informed that there was a push to add irrigation to the BMP program. We became aware of it last summer/fall when we started to work on revising the definitions. We should've made sure that you or someone else was on the email list for developing them BMPs. The definitions and BMPs for irrigation districts only apply to nonattainment areas designated after June 1, 2009, which means the rule will only apply to those districts in Pinal County.

I have a question regarding the BMP rule and the Pinal SIP. The BMP rule as written applies to both Maricopa and Pinal. Crop operations are contained in the same rule, we didn't write them as separate rules like what we did with the animal operations. How will EPA address this? Can EPA only consider the Pinal portion of the rule? Or will EPA have to address both the Maricopa portion and the Pinal portion since it is all in the same rule. Does my question make sense? If not, let me know.

Thanks,

Lisa

Lisa,

Can you explain to me how the irrigation BMPs came about? We were not aware that these were being developed until they were announced at the last Ag BMP Committee Meeting, and I could not hear the discussion very well.

We are reviewing the revised BMPs and we think ADEQ has done a great job. We have some general comments, and some questions that we would like to go over with you next week. There are also some issues on the irrigation BMPs that we would like to discuss with ADEQ. Do you have time on Wednesday, 8/7, or Thursday, 8/8, for a conference call? Thanks!

We have the draft EIs for the modeling domains/design days and the annual inventory. Bryan Paris has access to the most current documents. I'll forward your response to him and I'm sure he can get something to you.

Hi, Lisa,

The Pinal County EI will be a necessary part of the Ag BMP discussion because it will direct the focus of the Ag BMP Program in Pinal County. Is the EI available yet? Thanks!
